Now Roos to play the Press

The Socceroos will play against a team chosen by the Press before they leave on their world tour at the end of the season.

So says their coach Frank Arok.

"It'll give the Press a chance to show us how good they are. After all, they're always pretending to be national coaches," Arok said.

Soccer writers and broadcaster from throughout Australia will be asked to cast votes for the players of their choice in each position. Those who top the poll will form the team to meet Arok's Socceroos. The 22 in his squad won't be available for the Press team.

Arok did the same thing back home in Yugoslavia, where he was secretary of the football press association.

"They've kept it going as an annual affair, and now the football press association makes so much money out of it that the game finances all of the association's activities, including its best player awards," Arok said.

He suggested that the Australian Soccer Press Association should run the match here, organise the venue, appoint a coach for its team, and share the gate takings 50-50 with the Australian Soccer Federation.

By LAURIE SCHWAB

"Such a match is sure to be well promoted, and if it is held in Melbourne, I believe it would draw at least 15,000 people," Arok said.

To test the water, so to speak, we had a quick poll of "Soccer Action" correspondents, and the players heading the list for the Press team are:

Zarko Odzakov (Makedonia), Dennis Boland (Footscray J.U.S.T.), Gary McDowell (Footscray J.U.S.T.), Tommy Cumming (Melb. Croatia), Josip Biakic (Melb. Croatia), Scott Patterson (H'berg-Alex), Ian McKie (H'berg-Alex), Don Macleod (H'berg-Alex), Mike Petersen (H'berg-Alex), Claude Lucchesi (Makedonia), Paul Wade (Green Gully), David Lowe (Marconi), Billy Rogers (Juventus), George McMillan (Makedonia), Andrew Zinni (Juventus), John Dowie (Juventus), Carl Halford (SM-Hellas), Oscar Crino (SM-Hellas), Arno Bertogna (APIA), Peter Tredinnick (APIA), John Bradley (APIA), Frank Liddell (Brisbane City), Marjan Kovacic (Sydney Croatia), Wally Savor (Syd. Croatia), Tommy Sormanni (Canberra), Neville Flounders (Ad. C. Juventus), Sergio Melita (Ad. C. Juventus), Joe Senkelski (Newc.-Rosebud), Dez Marton (St George Budapest), Ray Farrugia (Melita Eagles) and George Konstantopoulos (West Adelaide Hellas).

Pick a team out of that array of stars! Even Arok would find it difficult.

Put 'em up, Joe!

HATZIPANAGIS TURNS IT ON

IRAKLIS 4 (D. Papadopoulos, C. Zifkas, D. Adamou, L. Papaioannou) DARWIN 0 at Showground Oval, Darwin. Crowd: 4000.

• Vasil Hatzipanagis lived up to his reputation as one of the finest footballers in Europe by masterminding a 4-0 victory over a Darwin XI in Iraklis's first match in Australia, in Darwin last Sunday.

Hatzipanagis controlled the match with precision passing and strong running which created numerous chances for his teammates in a match watched by 4000 people at the Darwin Showground Oval.

Iraklis will meet Australia B at Lang Park, Brisbane, tonight (Wednesday) — and Australia B from now on will field a settled side, after having experimented with various players in previous matches.

Iraklis will meet Australia B again at the MCG on Sunday, and will take on Australia A at Hindmarsh Stadium, Adelaide, on Friday, June 22.

In Darwin, Iraklis played a laid back brand of one-touch football which had the crowd enthralled from the kick-off.

Iraklis went one up after only 10 minutes when Daniel Papadopoulos pounced on a loose ball to score from five metres.

Star midfielder Lakis Papaioannou landed the second goal 12 minutes later when he latched onto the end of a Hatzipanagis cross to head home from 10 metres.

Dimitrios Adamou hit the third goal in the 52nd minute when he beat two players on the edge of the box and fired a shot into the top corner of the net, and Zifkas scored the fourth.

• Vasil Hatzipanagis

First team coach Friedl Rausch did not make the trip.

His assistant Telly Batakis is coach for the tour.

Three players were forced out of the tour. George Karaiskos is injured while Savas Kofidis and Ioannis Gitsioudis are on National Service with the Greek army.

Greek stars here to flex their muscles

By PAUL MOON

The team which meets Australia B at the MCG on Sunday certainly has a mighty name to live up to, for the English translation of Iraklis is Hercules!

The dominance of Athenian trio Panathinaikos, Olympiakos and AEK gives little scope for other clubs to claim major domestic honors and Iraklis has been restricted to just one.

This came in 1976, when it beat Olympiakos in the Greek Cup final on penalties after a 4-4 draw.

But in the European Cup Winners' Cup campaign Iraklis lost 0-2 on aggregate to Apollon Nicosia of Cyprus.

Earlier European ventures had been even more disappointing. In the old Fairs Cup, Iraklis lost 3-10 to Vojvodina Novi Sad (1961) and 1-9 to Real Zaragoza (1963).

By finishing third in the recently completed Greek League, Iraklis will have the chance to redress the balance during next season's UEFA Cup.

Under West German coach Friedl Rausch, Iraklis has developed into an excellent team which led the First Division early only to be overhauled by Panathinaikos and Olympiakos.

Among the better-known Iraklis players are much-capped defender George Firas; Lakis Papaioannou, a $300,000 buy from Pioneros five years ago; Charalambos Xanthopoulos — prominent during Greece's scoreless draws with West Germany (1980) and England (1983), and of course Vasil Hatzipanagis.

WELCOMES INTERNATIONAL SOCCER

Ratcliffe learns from O'Connor

When Australia A scored against Juventus at the MCG last Sunday, it was the Soccer-roos' seventh goal in its five unbeaten matches in the international series.

That goal was scored by defender David Ratcliffe who thus emulated his centre-back partner Steve O'Connor who has scored twice so far.

Coach Frank Arok joked after the match: "Ratcliffe is my goalscoring deputy for O'Connor."

Asked whether he saw Ratcliffe as a threat to him as a scorer, O'Connor said: "I taught him everything he knows."

O'Connor agrees that he almost never scores for his club, Sydney City Hawks, adding quickly: "But then, I'm a big-match player."

Neither O'Connor nor Ratcliffe was disturbed by the fact that Juventus had more vocal support than Australia. "It's these overseas teams the fans come to watch, I suppose. They only get one chance in a lifetime," Ratcliffe said.

Both agreed, however, that Australia's performances so far deserved greater recognition by the crowds.

Rangers manager Jock Wallace

Roos' surge like that of Holland

Glasgow Rangers manager Jock Wallace left Australia on a winning note at the weekend but still took with him one major disappointment.

"I must be regarded as one of the top coaches in Europe but at no stage during the international series was I able to talk to Australian coaches," he said.

"My program for the rest of this year is already mapped out, especially with the Scottish season resuming on August 11 but I would be available to return for coaching lectures next year providing the schedule is not crowded."

Rangers flew to New Zealand after a five-match tour which netted two wins and two draws against Australia B and one loss to Australia A.

The Scots met Australia B for the fourth time and revealed the difference in class when they trailed 1-0 at half time but took charge in the second half to run out 4-2 winners.

Wallace forecast a big leap forward for Australian soccer providing certain plans are carried through.

"Since my last visit in 1975 I would classify Australia as having made the same type of improvement as Holland and the next decade should see more positive results," he said.

"The players are definitely there and the standard has visibly increased. Once the players have the confidence to attack, the supporters will see a different brand of soccer."

"Australia has big, fast forwards willing to run on to the ball and attack and they have to be given the incentive."

"This is a coaching problem and if a team loses, then frustration and argument starts. Australia A beat us 3-2 but there were no hanging heads and we don't go on the field with the worry of defeat."

"That is fear football and it's not good for the game."

Wallace said he knew about the arrangements for this tour whereby Rangers would play four games in eight days but said he needed the tour to work out tactical schemes and players.

But he added there was no way they would come back under similar terms.

"Bring us back next year for four games on a Wednesday-Saturday schedule, and if we can have the coaching lectures with the same noticeable improvement in your teams, the crowds will be lining up at the gates to see the matches," he said.

The outspoken Scot paid particular tribute to his namesake, George Wallace, manager of the Australian B team and secretary of the Victorian Soccer Federation.

"He's carried out a good job for Australia with his dedication and commitment and that's probably because with the name he has there must be some Scottish blood in him," he said.

"He was the chief organiser when we toured here in 1975 and beat Victoria 5-1. If it hadn't been for the friendship we made and that Scot Jack Reilly in goals we would have beaten Victoria 10-1."

Roos too rough, moans Notts Forest coach

By TED SIMMONS

AUSTRALIA B 0 NOTTINGHAM FOREST 0 at Sydney Cricket Ground. Crowd 1500. Referee: Gary Power 6.

AUSTRALIA B: Franken 8 — Henderson 6 — M. O'Shea 8, Blair 6 — Lewis 7, Patikas 7, Katholos 6, J. O'Shea 7, Rizzotto 6 — Brown 6 (Egan 69th), Slater 6 (Cole 84th). Coach: Eddie Thomson.

NOTTINGHAM FOREST: Sutton 6 — Gunn 6, Fairclough 7, Hart 6, McInally 7 — Wigley 8, Bowyer 6, Hodge 7 — Davonport 6 (Reilly 81st), Murray 7, Mills 6 (Walsh 62nd). Coach: Ron Fenton.

Nottingham Forest bowed out of the international soccer series without a win after a low-key scoreless draw against Australia B at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Monday.

"Both teams were terrible and it was an especially poor first half," said Australian coach Eddie Thomson.

But Nottingham Forest coach Ron Fenton blamed the lack of goals on the physical style adopted by the Australians and the use of tackles from behind, which are now banned in England.

"The tour was a great experience, particularly for the younger members whom we hope will come through to the first team, but today's match suffered as a spectacle because of the number of fouls," he said.

"This team was more physical than the A team and it seemed they were determined to stop us. There was no retaliation from the Forest players, but it could have been different if I had taken the collars off," Fenton added.

Forest finished the tour without a win, registering two draws against Australia A and a 1-0 loss to Manchester United.

Referee Gary Power had his hands full in an incident-packed first half where tackles took precedence over tactics.

Only a continuance of the outstanding form of Australian goalkeeper Anthony Franken prevented Forest from breaking the deadlock as he once more brought off a number of brilliant and courageous saves.

He was in action in the sixth minute with Peter Davenport intercepted a throw-in, and found winger Steve Wigley, whose first time shot was tipped around the post by Franken.

Australia replied six minutes later when Jim Patikas slipped the ball to John O'Shea, but his drive was wide.

Franken literally clawed his way through the air to stop a blockbuster from Steve Hodge while Tony Henderson deflected a shot from Ian Bowyer after the Forest skipper had weaved around three defenders.

Goal attempts were few in the first half as players concentrated on stopping their opposition.

Franken had to dive and smother the ball at the feet of Jim McInally early in the second half and denied Bowyer a winning chance three minutes from time when another brave dive at the onrushing player brought a congratulatory pat from the Forest skipper.

Australia came more into the game in the second half with Robbie Slater shooting across the face of the goal and heading twice into the hands of Forest Keeper Steve Sutton.

Most of the Forest players were content to stay out of trouble and push the ball around and the Australians lived only in the last 20 minutes when the quick-moving Charlie Egan replaced the slower Doug Brown.

"We must be objective in looking at the result and realise that the B team has drawn with Nottingham Forest, who finished third in the English first division," said Thomson.

"In fact they got better as the game continued and were desperate to do well. Franken was outstanding and Slater played well in only his second full match appearance."

Thomson said the difference between the two Australian teams now was not that the B team had lost its commitment but rather that the A team had got better.

ASIAN CHAMPIONS SERIES NEXT?

An Asia-Oceania club champions' Cup and a Down-Under nations tournament should be the next steps in Australia's venture into international soccer.

Both would serve to strengthen the image of Australian soccer, further boost the national team and, hopefully, make money.

National coach Frank Arok is known to favor both proposals.

The club champions' Cup would, ideally, involve the national champions of Australia, Japan, South Korea, China, Taiwan, New Zealand, and Indonesia at least. The winner of such a competition could go on to challenge perhaps the African champion, and then the European or South American champion ... eventually, at least.

The nations tournament would require handsome prize money to force the competitors to give their all, and it would be similar to the Mer-lion Cup in Singapore.

An alternative to a competition involving national teams would be a short, sharp tournament between Australia and overseas clubs with a proven audience in Australia.

Panathinaikos, Hajduk Split, Vardar Skopje and AS Roma, for example. All you'd need is two Sundays of double-headers, and then the final. It couldn't miss.

With help from ref Juve holds Australia

Man of the Match: DAVID RATCLIFFE (Australia A)

AUSTRALIA A 1 (Ratcliffe 42nd) JUVENTUS 1 (Koetting 79th) at MCG, Sunday. Crowd: 36,128. Cautions: Watson (Aust); Prandelli, Bonini, Brio (Juve). Referee: Jack Johnston 1.

AUSTRALIA A: Groody 7 — Yankos 7 — Davidson 8, Ratcliffe 9, O'Connor 8, Jennings 9, Murphy 9, Watson 9 (Cant 85th) — Soper 8 (Farina 68th), Kosmina 6, Egan 7 (Mitchell 68th). Coach: Frank Arok.

JUVENTUS: Tacconi 7 — Caricola 6, Scirea 8, Brio 7, Cabrini 7 — Tardelli 6 (Prandelli 57th), Bonini 8, Vignola 7, Boniek 7 — Rossi 6, Penzo 5 (Koetting 68th). Coach: Giovanni Trapattoni.

This was so close to being one of the greatest moments in the history of international soccer in Australia. But for a lapse in concentration from goalkeeper Terry Greedy in the 79th minute, Frank Arok's national "A" team would have beaten, and justifiably so, one of the finest club outfits in the world.

A win would have been all the more gratifying for the Australian camp because let no-one make the mistake of not recognising the fierce, competitive nature of this absorbing encounter, played in front of the biggest crowd to watch a soccer match in Victoria since the 1956 Olympics.

Some said after the match that they were disappointed at the physical, sometimes violent nature of the game. They had expected Juventus to exhibit the passing skills and flair for which it is renowned.

It didn't. Because it wasn't allowed to be an Australian team which is as competitive, as aggressive as any team which has worn the green and gold in the past 20 years.

David Ratcliffe did a splendid job of shadowing the great Paolo Rossi; Alan Davidson and Graham Jennings pushed forward as they have done so in this series, and Marshall Soper and Charlie Egan made damn sure that whenever Juventus full backs Antonio Cabrini and Nicola Caricola tried to overtop them they were picked up.

Amidst all this effort from the Australians, it's this tremendous will-to-win and self belief, stood Kenny Murphy and Joe Watson in midfield.

Collectively, they're probably worth about $35,000 to the Australian market. They were up against players whose value runs into millions but not for these two Socceros a pauper's role. Far from it.

Watson jinked in and out of tight situations, playing it simple at exactly the right time, and proving as he has done since playing against England last year, that he is an international of the highest order.

Murphy's tremendous running ability and his amazing aggression surprised the Italians. He challenged as if his life depended on it. He also took on the responsibility of running at opponents, which shows you what sort of confidence he's got at this level. He's an established international now.

What a pity that Tasmanian referee Jack Johnston didn't display similar confidence. His was easily the worst display of refereeing I've seen in an international match in this country.

The occasion was just too much for Johnston. The atmosphere was electric well before the kick-off as thousands of flag-waving, chanting Italians turned the MCG into a part of Turin last Sunday afternoon.

The match was just four minutes old when Caricola clearly body-checked Soper inside the area, allowing Stefano Tacconi to gather the ball safely. Johnston saw it differently, waving play on.

A few minutes later, Zbigniew Boniek, in possession just inside his attacking half, saw Davidson charging toward him. Boniek, at the last minute, took a step toward Davidson and their bodies clashed. Boniek immediately appealed for a free kick, shaking his head in feigned disbelief at Davidson's "clumsiness". Johnston gave Boniek a free kick.

Just 10 minutes had elapsed but Arok already was in a frenzy, directing his high-pitched screams at his players, at the opposition, and at Johnston.

The referee made matters worse in the 28th minute. Soper slid in too late as Tacconi picked up the ball. The tall Italian spun around and felled Soper with a straight left. At least 36,000 people saw the incident. Johnston obviously didn't. After breaking up the brawl which erupted and which involved both benches having to run onto the pitch to calm tempers, Johnston, who clearly should have sent off Tacconi, didn't even book the Italian!

Late in the first half Watson tangled with Boniek, who swung a punch at the Australian midfielder right in front of Johnston. Watson was booked. Boniek escaped unscathed.

A word about the maestro Boniek. The Polish international certainly can play. No-one in the world can deny that. He also is one of the sneakiest players off the ball that I've ever seen. He's giggly, he moans, and whinges when things don't go his way, he loves to manhandle opponents, he's not averse to tripping and shirt-pulling and he's been a poor ambassador so far. Ask countless journalists and photographers who have had the misfortune of trying to talk to Boniek in Australia.

But back to the match. In the 15th minute Jennings played the ball to John Kosmina and set off down the right. Kosmina cleverly touched the ball off to Murphy whose delightful first-time pass sent Jennings through. But the full back pushed the ball a bit too far in front and Tacconi, who had charged off his line quickly, was able to smother at Jennings' feet.

Tacconi again was in the thick of the action when he had to save at Kosmina's feet in the 17th minute after Egan had cut the ball back from the left.

Juventus didn't create one clear-cut scoring chance in the first half.

It created plenty of controversy, though. Like Tacconi, Sergio Brio should have been sent off. He let fly with an elbow which split Egan's mouth which required stitches at half time. Johnston was bold enough to book Brio, who would have been sent off in almost any other part of the globe.

Within two minutes of Brio's misdemeanour, Australia staggered Juventus by taking the lead.

Watson swung over a corner to the near post in the 42nd minute. Ratcliffe judged the flight of the ball to perfection, heading firmly and surprising Tacconi, who tried to get both hands to the ball but couldn't stop it dropping into goal.

The Australians held firm until half time, although Arok was forced to hold his head in his hands in despair as Boniek wriggled into a shooting position, only to blast the ball wide of the far post.

Early in the second half, Tacconi was forced to dive at the near post and grab a shot from Soper but for the first 15 minutes of this half, Juventus pinned Australia in. Clearly, coach Giovanni Trapattoni had stirred up his stars during the interval.

Boniek forced Greedy into a fingertip save in the 55th minute. The ball had been crossed from the left, sweetly, Gaetano Scirea had headed back and the incoming Boniek had headed powerfully from 12 metres. Greedy tipped over.

Rossi by now, was being jeered from the stands. However, he turned a defender inside out in the 58th minute and sent over a tantalising far-post ball. Just before Boniek could get there, in flashed Jennings to head out for a corner.

Suddenly tricolors were flying proudly once more. Chants of "Juve, Juve" echoed around the southern stand. But Egan should have silenced them once and for all in the 62nd minute.

Soper won the ball wide on the right and played it into Davidson's path. Davidson struck a great ball in behind the Juventus defence and Egan, under pressure, charged in but couldn't get a clean strike from only five metres. The ball ran out of play for a goal kick to Juventus. It should have run into the back of the Juventus goal. It should have been 2-0.

Australia had missed a glit-tered chance to wrap up the match and record one of its greatest ever victories.

Success still was in Australia's grasp, but its grip, strong and firm after the first 45 minutes, had eased now. Cabrini almost made it 1-1 in the 77th minute from a short free kick which he curled around the Australian defensive wall and onto the near post.

Two minutes later Koetting, who had replaced inconspicuous Domenico Penzo in the 68th minute, cast doubts on Greedy's positioning. Koetting wriggled past two challenges then struck a firm, low shot from 16 metres.

Davidson was just a metre or so in front of Koetting when the Juventus player shot and the ball went in between Davidson's legs. Claims that Greedy could have been unsighted may be justified. Nevertheless, Greedy never got any real power in his movement sideways as he tried to dive and save. The ball went just inside the near post.

And Juventus had salvaged a draw. A volley from Massimo Bonini in the 87th minute forced Greedy into a fine save at the near post, but it was all too late and too little for Juventus.

Australia created better chances.

Australia should have won.

Juventus captain Gaetano Scirea

Local Juventus fetes visitors

Juventus captain Gaetano Scirea echoed the appreciation of his team at a gala reception at the St Kilda Town Hall on Sunday night when he said: "This is the finest welcome we have had anywhere in the world. We are humbly grateful. Nowhere else outside Italy have the fans been more enthusiastic."

The reception was arranged by Brunswick-Juventus, and almost 2000 people were there to pay tribute to the legendary stars of the famous Turin club.

The players' tables were surrounded throughout the night by well-wishers and autograph hunters.

"It is a big moment for us," Scirea said. "We will repay the kindness of the fans by producing much more in our remaining matches."

Scirea, who played for the Italian team that won the 1982 World Cup, praised Australia for its performance in drawing 1-1 with Juventus at the MCG.

"Australia has a very talented, very tough team, but we will beat them in the other two games," Scirea said.

The third and final match between Australia A and Juventus takes place at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Saturday. The second match was in Adelaide last night (Tuesday).

Joe Caruso, one of the organisers of the reception at the St Kilda Town Hall, said he hoped that the support shown for Juventus of Turin at the MCG would rub off on Brunswick Juventus.

"We have a good team, and if we keep winning, we deserve to be supported by all the people who are here tonight," Caruso said.

Rangers in the first half Patikas and Peter Katholos were doing some great things in midfield, however, Tony Henderson gave the ball away a couple of times with hopeful long passes rather than trying to build it up from the back. Nevertheless, Henderson had quite a good game.

But the second half was a different affair as the crack Scottish outfit piled on the pressure.

In the 48th minute Ferguson shot over after great work by Davie Cooper on the right.

Then, in the 52nd minute, a marvellous Cooper chip over Oliver had goal written all over it until Mike O'Shea headed off the line.

Now, it was Australia's turn.

A long drive from Henderson forced McCloy to tip wide at full stretch and in the 58th minute Patikas broke clear, only to shoot against the legs of the Rangers keeper.

But Rangers wouldn't be denied.

With the Australian defence rushing out in the 67th minute, the ball was played back over the top. Oliver charged out of goal to punch clear from Dave McClelland, but only succeeded in setting up Hugh Burns, who tapped in from six metres.

It was the only blemish on an otherwise fine display from the Australian keeper.

Rangers grabbed a two-goal cushion in the 75th minute. The linesman flagged, for offside then quickly changed his mind as he realised his mistake. McCloy broke free and made it 3-1. Straight after the goal, McCloy was replaced by John McDonald.

Rangers made it 4-1 in the 78th minute with the best goal of the night. Cooper, who really turned it on here, capped a great display with a superb goal.

After four pin-point passes, Cooper was given the ball, on the left edge of the Australian area, and he rifled home a sizzling low drive into the far corner.

After that, Australia was a well beaten side and merely appeared to be going through the motions for the remainder of play.

It gained some consolation,

GLASGOW RANGERS 4 (Patterson 19th, Burns 67th, McCloy 75th, Cooper 78th) AUSTRALIA B 2 (Blair 18th, Brown penalty 85th) at Adamstown Oval, Thursday. Crowd: 6,292. Cautions: Rizzotto (Aust); Redford, McClelland (Rangl). Referee: Jim Reeves 7.

Six goals and a high standard of soccer entertained a good crowd at Adamstown Oval last week as Glasgow Rangers said goodbye to Australia in style with a decisive 4-2 victory over the national "B" team.

And both sides said after the match that the surface of the pitch was the best they had encountered so far in this World Series, a compliment not given lightly and a rarity in the past few weeks as some of the greatest players in the world have struggled on sub-standard pitches. As a consequence, we haven't seen really outstanding games, however, this clash was one of the best of the series.

Australia almost took the lead in the 14th minute. Jim Patikas let fly with a fierce drive from 25 metres which crashed onto the bar.

A minute earlier, Iain Ferguson had a goal disallowed after pushing Australian defender Joe Rizzotto.

But the Australians couldn't be held at bay for long. In the 18th minute Steve Blair headed in at the far post from a Doug Brown corner. Rangers' giant keeper Peter McCloy must have been sleeping, for he allowed Blair to outjump him. No mean feat!

A minute later Rangers hit back.

Three Australian defenders had chances to clear but failed, leaving Craig Patterson unmarked and in possession inside the six yard box. Patterson drove the ball home through a forest of legs.

Then came two brilliant saves from Jeff Oliver, both from great shots by Ally McCloy. The second save was outstanding as Oliver dived full length to hold a low drive from the Rangers striker.

Australia looked a match for

He's the Cannonball Kid

Iain Ferguson was such a late addition to Glasgow: Rangers' touring party that his name did not appear in many lists accompanying newspaper reports of the team's arrival.

The subject of a $400,000 transfer from Dundee immediately before departing for Australia, Ferguson also had attracted interest from Aberdeen, Celtic, Dundee United, Coventry City and Wolverhampton Wanderers. Perhaps it was the incentive of a round-the-world trip which enabled Rangers to win his signature.

Recruited from Fir Park Boys' Club in 1977, he needed three years to establish himself in Dundee's first team, but once a regular he quickly became known as one of the hottest properties in Scottish football.

It was the power of his shooting which first won attention and gained him the nickname "Cannonball Kid."

Now, however, non-stop, aggressive running and exceptional acceleration when moving into scoring positions are equally valuable facets in his repertoire.

Reports of major clubs sending their scouts to look at the exciting striker became commonplace but remarkably he remained at Dens Park until the end of the recently-completed campaign.

Already capped by Scotland at youth and under-21 levels, Ferguson must be confident of graduating to full international status soon and being attached to a club of Rangers' calibre will help him towards that end.

AUSTRALIA B 1 (McCulloch 30th). GLASGOW RANGERS 1 (McClelland 32nd) at Hindmarsh Stadium, Tuesday. Crowd: 4300. Referee: Jim Rossis; 5. Cautions: Henderson (Aust); Burns (Rangers).

AUSTRALIA B: Franken 9; Lewis 7 (Blair 60th), M. O'Shea 8, Robertson 8, Henderson 7, Opatinis 7; J. O'Shea 7, Miranda 7, McCulloch 8 (Patikas 73th), Slater 7, Egan 9. Coach: Eddie Thomson.

GLASGOW RANGERS: McCloy 8; Burns 7, McKinnon 7, Patterson 7, McClelland 8; McCloy 8, McPherson 8, Munro 7, Cooper 8, E. Ferguson 7 (Russell 63rd), Clark 8 (I. Ferguson 63rd). Manager: Jack Wallace.

Rangers manager Jack Wallace is understood to have gone into both dressing rooms at half time of this match to tell both teams to cool it and cut out the aggro after referee Jim Rossis lost complete control of the game.

Rossis made some questionable decisions on tackles for 50-50 balls and missed a number of over-the-ball and late tackles which had both Wallace and Socceroo "B" coach Eddie Thomson jumping off the bench and screaming abuse.

There was a confrontation involving Charlie Egan and Dave McPherson, immediately after the Socceroo's goal.

And not long after Rangers equalised. Con Opatinis squared up to Ally McCloy for a scuffle which brought the 20 outfield players swarming to the one spot.

Then there was a booking for Tony Henderson for a foul on Eric Ferguson while earlier Peter Lewis will consider himself lucky to have got away with a simple ticking off for his late tackle on Davie Cooper.

Wallace's demand for a cooling of heads enabled the referee to come out of the nightmare somewhat in the second half but one wonders why Rossis would have been given such a hard game for his first international. This is one game he certainly will not forget in a hurry.

Rangers fell behind for the third time in four games but as on the three previous occasions were able to get on level terms almost immediately.

Tommy McCulloch scored Australia's goal after Rangers had dominated proceedings for the opening half hour.

Robbie Slater made a good run down the right, his centre went slightly behind Egan but the South Melbourne Hellas striker was able to turn and touch it on for McCulloch who made no mistake with his shot at the far post.

Australia B midfielder Jim Patikas breaks clear of a Glasgow Rangers opponent.

Jock Wallace immediately sent his five reserves to warm up down the touchline but there was no real need for panic as Rangers equalised within two minutes.

John McClelland was the scorer, latching onto a half clearance in a goalmouth melee to drive his low shot past Tony Franken.

Eddie Thomson had been sent two "A" team players, McCulloch and Robertson, and was asked to use both in the match.

Their addition and two other changes gave the Socceroo a disorganised outlook and the side took a long time to settle into any sort of rhythm.

But the second half brought a glut of scoring opportunities for both sides.

Opatinis warned Franken for the upcoming barrage of shots from Rangers with a hard-hit back pass which forced the keeper into a flying save to prevent an almost certain own goal.

At the other end, McCulloch's shot was deflected away for a corner and from the resultant kick, Mike O'Shea headed goalwards past McCloy but Bobby Russell had moved back to make a timely goal-line clearance.

Franken then made two great saves in a matter of minutes from substitute Iain Ferguson and Russell before the Socceroo again came close to regaining the lead.

Egan finished a good run down the right with a low centre to Mike O'Shea who touched the ball wide for Slater to slam a shot past McCloy but the ball bounced off the post.

Franken rounded off the action by making the save of the game getting his fingertips to the ball to tip a piledriver from Cooper onto the bar.

"The sound of 24,286 people booing can best be compared with a long moan. That was the noise that rang round the SCG as two of the greatest teams in the world ground through 90 minutes of goalless soccer." — Sydney Morning Herald.

"The millionaires of international football, Juventus and Manchester United gave a peniless performance..." — Courier-Mail, Brisbane.

"Another exhibition match, watched by 24,286 fans, turned into a complete farce with a penalty shoot-out that decided the result. And that announcement came only five minutes from the end of the match which petered out to a scoreless draw." — Daily Telegraph, Sydney.

"Neither team tackled, there was much friendly patting of heads and hand-shaking and opposing coaches Giovanni Trapattoni and Ron Atkinson stood practically arm-in-arm watching the penalty shoot-out... It was an exhibition match — nothing more — the type of thing the Harlem Globetrotters are renowned for." — The Age, Melbourne.

"The big crowd was given added disappointment when superstars Paolo Rossi and Claudio Gentile were substituted..." — The Sun, Melbourne.

"European skills were abundantly displayed in what largely amounted to an elaborate exhibition game devoid of passion and excitement." — The Advertiser, Adelaide.

"It was a lacklustre affair because, to be truthful, there was nothing at stake." — The Sun, Sydney.

"The result was a display packed with great technique and skills, yet missing the final punch and the thrill of goalscoring. If you like your football served up with plenty of blood and thunder and bone-crunching tackles, the game can be written off as a failure. However, if you have tastes for subtle skill and the delicacy of the game, even if it was played in an exhibition manner, the exercise was a success." — Daily Mirror, Sydney.

Australia's coach Frank Arok and his team manager Andrew Lederer put it all into a nutshell. "It is not entertainment without fire and passion," Arok said, and Lederer added: "If we are to have such matches, we need prize money of $30,000 or $50,000. That would bring out the passion."

Really, we had little right to expect much more than what we saw at the SCG from two teams with nothing to play for. These players are expensive commodities. Why take risks? Would you take a rolls Royce to a smash-up derby?

It was different in 1977, in the "World of Soccer" series between Arsenal, Celtic, Red Star and Australia, because there was prize money involved, and so the players had a financial stake in the outcome. So it must be with any future matches staged here between visiting teams.

There was no doubting the skills of the Juventus players, of course, even if they used them only as a training exercise. Their play was controlled as usual. Defence was precise and clinical — the build-ups were intricate, possession lasted much longer than when United had the ball. Zbigniew Boniek was breathtaking when he chose; goalkeeper Tacconi was faultless right down to saving a penalty. Juventus also outnumbered United on the terraces, where Italian flags fluttered in all corners of the SCG.

But the poor fans didn't see the best from their heroes. Antonio Cabrini, attacking incessantly on the left, was the busiest of Juventus's World Cup players. Next came Marco Tardelli, combining with Claudio Gentile on the right. Paolo Rossi had only one shot at goal, before he, Gentile and captain Gaetano Scirea were replaced by coach Giovanni Trapattoni.

United's 35-year-old guest player Frank Worthington shone the Italians. He launched a few powerful shots at goal and was unlucky not to score. United's other stars, apart from goalkeeper Gary Bailey, were its two other guests, left winger Peter Barnes and Tommy Hutchinson on the right.

The penalty shoot-out was decided upon well before the match, so it was curious that no announcement was made at the ground until just before the end.

After the boos had subsided, Worthington scored with the first shot, and the next seven players also were successful, making the score 4-4.

Then Tacconi saved Blackmore's shot, leaving Boniek to score and win the match for Juventus 5-4.

David Ratcliffe, the Australian Gentle!

AUSTRALIA A 2 (Kosmina 36th, O'Connor 69th) NOTTINGHAM FOREST 2 (Hodge pen 57th, Bowyer 66th) at Lang Park, Brisbane. Referee: Tim Davies 5.

AUSTRALIA A: Greedy 9 - Davidson 8 (Watson half-time), O'Connor 7, Ratcliffe 8, Yankos 8, Jennings 8 - Cant 7, Raskopoulos 6 (Gray 57th), Farina 8, Kosmina 8, Soper 6 (Mitchell 74th). Coach: Frank Arok.

FOREST: Van Bruckelen 9 - Anderson 7 (Gunn half-time), Walker 6, Fairclough 8, McNally 8 - Wigley 7, Bowyer 8, Mills 6 - Hodge 8, Birtles 6 (Riley 57th), Walsh 6 (Davsonport half-time) 7). Coach: Ron Fenton.

David Ratcliffe is set to stamp himself as one of Australia's greatest ever defenders.

That's the opinion of coach Frank Arok and many others who watched the St George central defender in action for Australia "A" against Nottingham Forest in Brisbane.

Ratcliffe was assigned the task of keeping Forest's star striker Garry Birtles under control - a job which probably would ensure most defenders a sleepless night and a stomach full of butterfies.

But not Ratcliffe - undoubtedly Australia's answer to Juventus' "enforcer" Claudio Gentile.

From the start, Ratcliffe let Birtles know who was boss. The Forest striker scarcely could move without Ratcliffe swooping in with a well timed tackle or a powerful header.

But unlike many ruthless defenders, there was no malice in Ratcliffe's challenges. His game is one of pure determination and will to win.

"Ratcliffe is definitely nudging on world class, and he is still improving," Arok said.

"His concentration is so good and now he is even controlling his nerves. He fears no-one."

Ratcliffe's performance capped what was a fine showing from Australia "A" - probably the best display given by an Australian soccer team in Brisbane for decades.

Arok's "A" team took the game to Forest, paid the penalty for being too adventurous, then fought back to show its true colors.

Showing a new formation which saw Peter Raskopoulos tried in midfield ahead of Ken Murphy and Joe Watson, and youngster Frank Farina up front instead of David Mitchell, it took Australia nearly 20 minutes to settle.

In that period, Forest applied plenty of pressure and Wigley, Hodge and Mills nearly snatched early goals for the tourists.

But then Farina, making his full international debut in front of his home state crowd, took the bit and had Forest back - pedalling with his searching, speedy runs from deep in the Australian half.

One Farina-initiated attack nearly produced a goal in the 26th minute, but the youngster's own shot was blocked then Davidson's attempt was negated when an offside ruling was made.

But Australia was looking dangerous. And 10 minutes later Marshall Soper outpaced Forest new boy Joe McNally to run onto a superb cross field ball from Jim Cant. Soper

Man of the Match:
DAVID RATCLIFFE

fired his shot but Van Bruckelen was equal and spread himself well to block the pile driver.

One minute later, Farina created the opening goal. Using his fine skills and pace he weaved his way down the left to the line and crossed to his captain. Kosmina pivoted and cracked a low shot into the far corner.

Three minutes later the action was all at the other end and a world class save from Terry Greedy denied Steve Hodge a goal.

McNally, whose overlapping runs caused problems all night for Australia, got to the byline and found Hodge in the six yard box. Greedy made a reflex save to his left to stop the powerful header from the youngster, whose workrate and enthusiasm stood out in the Forest side.

The half finished with some more brilliant football. Just prior to the whistle, Soper found Kosmina unmarked at the edge of the box. With the big Forest keeper off his line, Kosmina cleverly chipped.

But van Bruckelen managed to get the finest of finger touches to the ball and just edged it over the cross bar.

Australia lost Alan Davidson at the break with a knee injury while Forest made two changes at half-time, seemingly only to give everyone a run.

It took only 12 minutes after the break for Forest to level terms thanks to a penalty. O'Connor, who until then had not been having a happy game, handballed as the ball bobbed up in a challenge with Hodge.

Although Hodge still managed to crack the ball into the goal, referee Tim Davies still awarded the penalty. It was one of a number of strange and unnecessary whistle blowing incidents from Davies, particularly in the second half.

Hodge was given the kick and blasted his attempt into the net with Greedy going the opposite way.

McNally created Forest's second with a surging run down the left and a pinpoint far post ball that was volleyed in by Ian Bowyer.

With its back to the wall, Australia showed tremendous determination and charged back seeking the equaliser.

It was rewarded with a classic goal in the 69th minute. From a Joe Watson corner, O'Connor rose dominantly at the near post to glance a header into the net.

"The comeback was the re-

warding aspect," Arok said later.

"It is vitally important for our World Cup chances that we are not beaten when we are down. No-one can now say that our results in the past were flukes."

McMeechan out, Williamson in

By CRAIG MAC KENZIE

Hammy McMeechan and Dave O'Connor joined Billy Voitek and Tony Vrzina on the State League coaching casualty list after being sacked by Doveton and Broadmeadows respectively last week.

Ian Williamson is the new coach at Doveton, while Jim McIntyre replaces O'Connor at Broadmeadows.

Earlier this season, St Albans Dinamo sacked Voitek while Vrzina resigned from Northcote.

That means that four of the last five clubs on the State League ladder have undergone coaching changes this year.

We'll see over the next few weeks whether St Albans, Doveton and Broadmeadows are justified in deciding that coaching changes are the answers to their on-field problems.

Williamson, a former Mooroolbark, Frankston City and Richmond player, may come up trumps on Saturday as Doveton is at home to Knox City.

The Doves finally have fixed up the transfer of midfielder Matt McDonald from Box Hill and he'll make his debut against Knox. Doveton also has signed another midfielder, Don Sutherland from Bulleen, and a few weeks ago signed Tony Kaiser, the ex-Melbourne and South Melbourne Hellas player. That means that Williamson now has far more depth in his first team squad so don't be surprised to see the Doves making a list of their fight to avoid relegation.

The Broadmeadows committee is confident that McIntyre can get the players moving. At Laura Douglas Reserve on Saturday, however, Broadmeadows run into a Western Suburbs side which already has proven itself a competent, competitive and skilful State League outfit. Broadmeadows main task will be trying to cope with the attacking bite of Bill Lazopoulos, Ged Stenson and Alex Filippis.

Morwell is the top four side facing the greatest challenge on Saturday. Jimmy Dunne's lads travel to Croydon Park and although the home side isn't performing as consistently as it should, Croydon will be a real handful for Morwell.

However, in Steve Moore and Jim MacLean, Morwell has two of the classier midfielders in State League. Their use of the ball is first rate and they can play a major part in carrying Morwell to an important win.

Fawkner should defeat Frankston Pines at Monterey Boulevard, Polonia should beat Northcote at John Cain Reserve, while Box Hill should be too strong for St Albans Dinamo at Wembley Park.

Albion Rovers, who have surprised a few sides already this season, can grab yet another point when they take on Ringwood Wilhelmnia at Selwyn Park on Saturday.

Like most observers, I expected Albion to really struggle this year. But take a look at Albion's midfield. Tom Purcell, Gerry Reilly and Alan Bennett all can play. In fact, a few State League sides could do with a midfield like that.

Here are this week's games with likely winners in capitals:

SATURDAY
Albion Rovers v. Ringwood Wilhelmnia (draw) at Selwyn Park, 3 pm.
Broadmeadows v. WESTERN SUBURBS at Laura Douglas Reserve, 3 pm.
Frankston Pines v. FAWKNER at Monterey Boulevard, 3 pm.

Croydon City v. MORWELL FALCONS at Croydon Park, 3 pm.
BOX HILL v. St Albans Dinamo at Wembley Park, 3 pm.

Tacconi, Vignola for Italian Olympic team

The Italian Olympic Committee (CONI) has decided to enter a national soccer team in the Los Angeles games to replace one of the boycotting countries of the Soviet bloc.

CONI took the decision in accordance with recommendations by the Italian Soccer Federation and by the International Football Federation (FIFA).

FIFA invited Italy, West Germany and Spain to enter teams in the Olympic soccer tournament to replace the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Italy had failed to make the Olympic tournament through the regular qualifying rounds.

Soon after CONI's decision, the Italian Soccer Federation listed 24 players for the Olympic tournament.

The best-known players on the list are goalie Stefano Tacconi and midfielder Beniamino Vignola of Juventus of Turin, defender Sebastiano Nela of Roma, midfielder Salvatore Bagni of Internazionale di Milano, defender Pietro Vierchow of Sampdoria (Genoa), midfielder Franco Baresi of Milan and forwards Pietro Fanna of Verona and Roberto Mancini of Sampdoria.

Sampdoria bids for Souless

The English League champion also said 31-year-old Souless was attracting interest from another Italian club, Verona.

Chief executive Peter Robinson said: "No offers have as yet been accepted or rejected. We may have to part with Graeme, but we will talk over the situation with him as soon as he returns from our tour of Swaziland."

- West German sweeper Gerd Strack will miss the European Championship finals this month having suffered a groin injury which required an operation last year.
- Surely the "Blue of the Season". The former president of Algeria's federation forgot to confirm that his country's team would be travelling to Switzerland for an "A" international recently and when the team arrived in Bern it found that Sweden had been flown in as a replacement! Upon his return to Algiers, the official was dismissed.

Tottenham must rue letting Souness escape its grasp

By PAUL MOON

Liverpool captain Graeme Souness could take particular pride when he held the European Champions' Cup aloft in Rome's Olympic Stadium, for it was his performance in midfield which did much to thwart AS Roma's intended springboard to victory — the flair of Toninho Cerezo and Roberto Falcao.

He certainly earned his winners' medal — the 14th in a career which was almost terminated before it had hardly begun.

After an outstanding performance for Scotland schoolboys against England at Tottenham Hotspurs' ground, the North London club swooped to sign the 15 year old on an apprentice form; although he had been training twice a week with Glasgow Celtic.

Souness was hailed as the "New Dave Mackay" when starting for Tottenham's FA Youth Cup winning side of 1963-70, but failed to make the progress anticipated.

Inability to win a first team place and homesickness led to him returning to Scotland without his club's knowledge.

Only upon the intervention of a Scottish Footballers' Union representative was Souness persuaded not to give soccer up and he rejoined Spurs, which suspended him for two weeks without pay.

This somewhat harsh treatment even provoked questions in the House of Commons and only increased the Scot's determination to leave London. Negotiations with his home town club Hearts broke down, but in December, 1972, Souness moved to Middlesbrough for $60,000. He had made just one senior team appearance — as substitute during a UEFA Cup game in Iceland.

At Middlesbrough, Souness came under the influence of manager Jack Charlton, who made him appreciate that he could earn the game's richest rewards if willing to work upon developing a rare natural ability.

Not only did the former England centre half change Souness' attitude, he also switched the Scot's position from left sided linkman and occasional full back to centre of midfield, where his energy, determination, skill and shooting power would be best utilised and a lack of pace least exposed.

In Souness' first full season with Middlesbrough, it won the Second Division championship and, a few months later, he made his senior international debut against East Germany, after only two under-22 games.

It soon became obvious that his full potential could not be realised with Middlesbrough and, reluctantly, he sought a transfer. In January, 1978 Liverpool brought him to Merseyside for a fee of $704,000 — then a record transaction between English clubs.

Just five months later, Souness was playing a vital part in Liverpool's Champions' Cup final victory over Bruges — and it has been success following success ever since.

His omission from Scotland's disastrous opening games of the 1978 World Cup Finals against Peru and Iran caused much consternation amongst public and media alike and the devastating performance he gave during the subsequent match with Holland proved just how big a mistake Scottish manager Ally MacLeod had made.

From that time, his absences from international duty have been rare and he appeared in all three of Scotland's 1982 encounters in Spain.

Generally regarded as the best all-round midfielder in Britain — a gift to read the game perfectly more than compensates for limitations in speed, Souness already was the hub of the Liverpool team when he became its captain early in 1982, when it was going through a rough patch.

ended the season with both the league championship and League Cup.

Soon afterwards, Scotland appointed Souness its captain too.

Just turned 31, he may have won more accolades than most players even dream about, but this true professional will have no problems motivating himself with fresh challenges.

Portugal's Nene out to break Eusebio's record

By ALBERTO PONTES

Portugal, out of the soccer limelight since finishing third in the 1966 World Cup finals in England, will be eager to make an impact when it returns to major competition in the European Nations' Cup finals starting in Paris this week.

The present Portuguese side may lack the glamour of the 1966 team which was so richly embellished by the skills of Eusebio, but it qualified for the finals in style, winning five of its six matches and eliminating the powerful Soviet side.

Eusebio remains his country's most famous soccer name and he is in France in a public relations role. While there he will almost certainly see his record number of Portuguese international appearances fall to perhaps the best known member of the current side, striker Tamiagini Nene of Benfica.

But Portugal must leave behind Ze Beto, its promising young goalkeeper who has been banned from European matches for a year after trying to attack a linesman following Porto's 2-1 defeat by Juventus in the European Cup Winners' Cup final.

The Portuguese, who have never previously appeared in the European Championship finals, have been training at Palmela, 50 kilometres from Lisbon's distractions, and staying in an old castle. They will play in group two, facing a tough first match against West Germany tomorrow (Thursday) in Strasbourg. A win over the reigning champion would obviously provide the team with an enormous boost and delight the vast following in France of more than one million Portuguese guest workers.

Trainer Fernando Cabrita is more impressed by the physical than the technical side of West Germany's game. He considers the Germans' main weaknesses are the lack of a result against West Germany that will be very useful for the rest of the competition," Cabrita said.

After the West Germany match, Portugal plays Spain in Marseilles this Sunday and Romania in Nantes three days later.

Portuguese champion Benfica and cup winner Porto provide most of the squad. The "outsiders" include Jordao of Sporting Lisbon and reserve goalkeeper Vitor Damas of Portimonense, at 36 the oldest man in the squad, and Jorge Silva of Setubal, who will take Beto's place.

The attack will be led by Nene, 34, Benfica's top scorer for the past 18 years, and Gomes of Porto, the leading marksman in Europe last year. Nene needs one more cap to equal Eusebio's tally of 64.

Chalana, a fast winger, and the Angolan-born Jordao are also dangerous front players.

The defence comprises mostly players from the Porto team — Joao Pinto, Lima Pereira, Eurica and Eduardo Luis — which conceded only nine goals in 21 league games last season.

Surprisingly, many of the players who helped Portugal to victory during the qualifying matches against Finland, Poland and the Soviet Union have been excluded from the squad, Cabrita, a former Portuguese international himself, justifies this by saying his committee has picked the players in the right form at the right time.

"We will overcome the lack of a superstar with the collective force of a truly homogeneous team," Cabrita says.

Portugal may be widely regarded as one of the weaker teams in the finals but its supporters think otherwise.

A recent survey in a leading national sports newspaper, Gazeta Dos Desportos, showed that only 10.4 per cent felt the team would be eliminated in the first round and 15.4 per cent said Portugal would go all the way to its first major title.

Will Spaniards bury the memory of '82 failure?

By PASCAL FLETCHER

Spain, still haunted by the memory of failing before its own fans in the 1982 World Cup, will be seeking to win back its reputation and pride in the European Nations' Cup finals in France.

The Spanish squad is riding high on a wave of euphoria after thrashing Malta 12-1 last December and saving itself from what looked like certain elimination from the finals.

The Malta game was the last of Spain's qualifying group in which closest rival the Netherlands had amassed an apparently insurmountable lead on goal average. The Spaniards had all but resigned themselves to not going to Paris.

But they stunned the Dutch and surprised themselves by blasting 12 goals past the luckless Maltese to qualify.

The victory stirred memories of Spain's greatest soccer achievement 20 years ago when it won the European Nations' Cup by beating the Soviet Union 2-1 in the final in Madrid.

Spain's qualification is a triumph for manager Miguel Munoz who took over after its humiliating elimination in the second round of the World Cup two years ago.

With the fans' shouts of "Yes, yes, yes, we're going to Paris" still ringing in their ears, 62-year-old Munoz and his 20-man squad played a series of warm-up games against Switzerland, Hungary and Yugoslavia before the finals.

A 4-0 victory in a rain-drenched friendly against Switzerland showed Spain had lost none of its new-found enthusiasm in goal-scoring ability.

But against a dour and awkward Hungarian side in Budapest it looked less convincing, and could only manage a 1-1 draw.

Spain's captain Luis Arconada tries to smother this shot from West Germany's Pierre Littbarski during the 1982 World Cup finals.

fender Andoni Goikoetxea has appeared only nine times for his country, he has already won a formidable reputation as an ice-cool and rock-hard opponent.

Goikoetxea is expected to be flanked by his Athletic Bilbao team-mate Santiago Urkiza, Sporting De Gijon's Antonio Maceda and Camacho, providing a solid defence backed by Arconada, who boasts 54 caps.

Up front, Santillana's place looks certain, but his most likely partner, Betis' Hipolito Rincón, suffered a groin injury in the game against Hungary and is doubtful for the finals.

Real Madrid's 21-year-old prodigy Emilio Butragueno is tipped to replace him. A shy youngster, he was Real's discovery of the season and his sharp skill and scoring ability for the under-21s are known to have caught the manager's eye.

Alternatively, Munoz can call on Bilbao's Manuel Sarrabia or the Barcelona duo of Francisco Carrasco and Marcos Alonso who are competent, but not outstandingly gifted strikers.

Chinaglia buys big

Warner Communications has agreed to sell 50 percent of the Cosmos to Giorgio Chinaglia, according to Chinaglia, a former captain of the team, and Peppino Pitron, a vice president of the Cosmos and formerly Chinaglia's business manager.

Rafael de la Sierra, the president of the Cosmos, would neither confirm nor deny the sale. Steve Ross, chairman of Warner, failed to return phone calls.

Chinaglia, who commented before leaving for Rome a fortnight ago, said that he had met with Ross and that Ross had wanted him to run the team. But Chinaglia said he had insisted on being a part-owner as well, and that Ross had agreed.

Chinaglia would not disclose financial terms, but reports have placed the price of the franchise between $10 million and $15 million.

Ross originally planned to appoint Chinaglia as president of the Cosmos after Chinaglia's retirement at the end of last season, but Chinaglia instead purchased the Lazio team of Rome and is now its president.

Rufer back; new boys for Kiwis

New Zealand coach Allan Jones may have given an indication of his likely World Cup line-up with his squad for the "President's XI" game against Glasgow Rangers in Auckland last Saturday.

As it was not a full New Zealand representative side, Jones took the opportunity to include players who have yet to be naturalised, but are likely to be eligible when the series against Australia, Israel and Taiwan commences.

Into this category come Englishmen Kevin Hagan (Napier City Rovers), Colin Walker (Gisborne City) and Paul Halford (Napier City Rovers). Walker, the former Barnsley and Doncaster Rovers striker, is a particularly noteworthy addition.

A player of proven ability, whose credits include a goal against Liverpool, he joins Steve Wooddin and Wynton Rufer in a strike force which must leave New Zealand soccer fans drooling with anticipation following the ineptitude displayed in this area during the Singapore fiasco.

Wooddin, who announced himself unavailable for further international duty just over a month ago, has changed his mind and, to give the Kiwis further encouragement, Wynton Rufer returned from Switzerland stating he would be free to play in all World Cup matches.

With Wooddin, Rufer and Walker spearheading the side, New Zealand's prospects look considerably brighter than they did a few weeks earlier.

PAUL MOON

COSMOS K.O. BY CHINESE!

From ALEX YANNIS of the N.Y. TIMES NEWS SERVICE

The Cosmos erupted for four goals after a scoreless first half and captured the fifth annual Trans-Atlantic Challenge Cup in New Jersey last week with a 4-1 victory over Udinese of Italy.

A crowd of 34,158 watched the Cosmos dominate the Italians in the second half, with Alan Green, Dragan Vujovic, Stan Terlecki and Gerry Gray scoring in that order for the Cosmos. Alberto Marchetti tallied the lone goal for the Italians. Barcelona of Spain won the consolation from Fluminense in the opening game of the double-header at Giants Stadium.

"After we scored five against Barcelona and four against the Italians," said Vlado Bogicevic, the captain of the Cosmos, "maybe people are beginning to believe we are not kindergarten any more. We've looked like a team the last two games."

The Cosmos were rather impressive in the 5-3 victory over Barcelona in the opening round of the tournament, but they were even better in the last 20 minutes against Udinese. With Bogicevic Gray, Chico Borja and Andy Parkinson, who replaced the injured Borja in the 78th minute, operating methodically in midfield, the Cosmos picked apart Udinese's experienced defence.

"We had to have patience and keep grinding away," coach Eddie Firmani said. "Our midfielders did well to get the ball to the forwards at the right time."

The Cosmos became progressively better in the second half, particularly after Firmani inserted Vujovic in place of Green in the 62nd minute. Vujovic made Firmani look like a genius as he broke a 1-1 deadlock two minutes after he entered. The goal was the culmination of a marvelously executed one-two with Bogicevic, which turned the Italians inside out.

Vujovic's goal from six metres away on the left side, after the return pass from Bogicevic, delighted the crowd, but Terlecki, in the 77th minute, was the play of the afternoon.

It started with Jeff Durgan, who replaced the injured Johan Neeskens in the 63rd minute, winning a battle in midfield and pushing the ball long on the right to Steve Moyers. The cross man Moyers found the feet of Terlecki, who volleyed it on the ran into the roof of the net from inside the penalty area.

Moyers and Bogicevic combined for Gray's goal that sealed the Cosmos' third Trans-Atlantic Cup championship. The tournament has yet to be captured by a foreign team. Seattle won in 1981 and Chicago in 1982. This was the first time only one team represented the North American Soccer League.

This tournament had the strongest teams. Neeskens said, "And we won clearly. We beat Barcelona and Maradona, and we beat Udinese that beat Fluminense."

The game may have been the last with Barcelona for Diego Maradona, widely considered the best player in the world. Napoli of Italy has reportedly made a bid of $8 million for Maradona, who was transferred from Boca Juniors in Argentina two years ago for $9.2 million.

Barcelona captured the consolation game by converting all five of its penalty kicks. Fluminense scored four out of five penalties after the teams had played a 2-2 tie in normal time.

The Cosmos and Hubert Birkenmeier, their all-star goalkeeper who became a free agent after he refused to take a 45 percent cut in salary, have each made an impression in their negotiations for his return.

Rare double eludes Moran

A three-day visit away from home cost Manchester United defender Kevin Moran the unusual distinction of being a dual football representative against Australia.

Not in the usual rugby codes but the rare double of Gaelic football and soccer.

The Dublin-born Moran, is a key player in the United line-up.

"I had the opportunity to play for Dublin against Australia in 1977 in a representative match which was a mixture of Gaelic football and Australian rules," he said.

"But Billy Behan, the chief scout for Manchester United, talked me into visiting Manchester for a three-day trial with the club and I had to miss the Dublin game."

Moran had concentrated on Gaelic football and played in a number of all-Ireland finals. He also was selected in the All Stars representative side which toured the United States in 1976.

He was 21 when he joined the Red Devils, a late start to make a debut in the strongly competitive English First Division.

"I wouldn't have trailed if it had been any other team but there was and still is a certain charisma about Manchester United that makes the blood tingle," he said.

"At times it spills over into practical jokes among team members but there is never any bad feelings, even though we did get one player to stand in the rain one night in reply to a mythical call from a journalist seeking an interview."

"Everyone is a joker in the team, including Gordon McQueen who can look so solemn when talking, but the joking doesn't spill over onto the field."

"It stops well before a match and every game is treated seriously. Like the English First Division, it's win or nothing."

Moran is now 28 and will marry in December. His first meeting with his fiancée, Eleanor Hughes, lasted 30 seconds at a club meeting.

Eleanor was studying clothing technology at Manchester and had never even a game of soccer. She is now a regular at Old Trafford for United's home games.

The transition from Gaelic to soccer was not difficult for Moran because he kept his same position of centre half back and adopted the same role of attacking defence.

"I like to see the opposition in front of me and prefer to come forward. It also earned seven goals for me during last season," he said.

First loss in six years!

Scarsdale High School's girls' soccer team in New York has done something it hasn't done during the six years the school has fielded a team. It lost.

John Jay High School of Cross River last month ended the longest unbeaten streak ever held by a girls high school soccer team, by beating The Raiders 1-0.

Previously, Scarsdale had won 107 games and tied two.

"We hope we handled our first loss with as much class as our first 107 wins," said coach Art Resnick, who has guided the team since its inception in 1979.

"We lined up on the field and shook hands with John Jay, who deserved to win. Our kids were upset and we'll probably cry to night, but it's only a game and we'll be back playing tomorrow."

The streak had been certified as a record by the National Soccer Federation. The team's winning streak of 85 games, also a record, ended two weeks ago in a tie with another John Jay High School of East Fishkill.

Resnick attributed the team's streak to hard work, productive practice sessions, a commitment to playing the best it could, and exemplary team play.

"We'll be ready to play again," Resnick said. "Life goes on."

XIPOLITAS QUILTS!

Canterbury coach John Xipolitas quit after watching his side get hammered 4-1 by Sutherland at the weekend.

However, the Canterbury committee hadn't decided whether or not to accept Xipolitas's resignation as we went to press.

Sutherland's win gave it a top four spot on goal difference from Auburn-Uruguay.

Inter-Monaro still is the league leader after cruising to a 3-1 win over Avala at Knight Park. And Seb Giampolo and Tony Brennan weren't in the Monaro line-up! Pity help Avala if these two top class strikers had been playing.

Manly, in second spot, maintained its unbeaten record by drawing 0-0 with Rockdale Ilinden. Manly has a game in hand on Monaro. That's against Warringham and should, as expected, Manly pick up the points, it will grab top spot.

Sutherland 4 Canterbury 1

Scorers: Dounis (Cent), Groom 2, C. Rogers, Stoddart (Sub).
Venue: Seymour Shaw.

Nigel Groom scored two goals to pave the way for his side to demolish Canterbury at Seymour Shaw Park.

John Stoddart and Craig Rogers added one goal each to maintain Sutherland's "mid-field power" in this match. All four home teams goals came from midfielders.

To add to Canterbury's woes, John Xipolitas, its coach, decided to call it a day, resigning his post after the match.

It was the second hammering for Canterbury in the last four weeks, an unacceptable situation for this Greek-supported club. Xipolitas, who at one time coach Sydney Olympic, could not fault his players.

"They did not play badly against Sutherland, yet the scoreline suggests just that. A week ago we should have been beaten by Auburn when we did play badly. It is all so frustrating for me. I resigned due to the lack of good results, but it is up to the committee to decide what to do from here on," said the likeable Xipolitas.

Well, while Canterbury suffered its third defeat of the season Sutherland has hit form at the right time.

Louis Dounis scored his fourth of the season to put his side ahead early, but Sutherland was to assume its superiority and take a 2-1 lead at half time. Soon after half time, John Petas hit the crossbar with a scorcher from 20 metres, but the further this match went the better the home side played.

Peter Terry came on for John Stoddart in the 85th in what most saw as a defensive move by coach John Lavin, but the ex-Saint showed up well in midfield.

Manly Warringham 0 Rockdale Ilinden 0

Venue: Cromer Park

When neither side wants to lose then a simple but very definite defensive pattern is evident with very few goal-mouth incidents and very few chances created.

Rockdale did have an upper hand in the last five six minutes when all looked for Manly but a poor header from Ross Brown went past the post and a series of corner kicks weren't capitalised on as Manly's unbeaten record remained intact.

Bobby Pagano was once again the star for the home team with yet another fine performance while Robbie Stuart played well up front. Stocky John Dick and uncompromising Bruce Doyle helped to keep Rockdale's Brown at bay, but Duddley Fox put in another disappointing performance.

For Rockdale, apart from Brown, most impressive were Nasirski, Slavski and Grasevski in midfield as well as Kotzohambos in goal, whilst Darren Wilson was amongst the best in defence.

Avala 1

Inter Monaro 3

Scorers: Montarosso 22nd, Wilcox 53rd, Valeri 65th, Budini 87th.
Venue: Knight Park.

Inter Monaro registered its seventh win of the season but after some stubborn resistance from the home side, in fact, Avala held the favoured Inter to a single goal difference at the break and with a very strong wind at its back in the second half looked like getting back on even terms.

However, Billy Wilcox and Walter Valeri dispelled any doubts about the final outcome with second half goals, aided by some sloppy goalkeeping by Peter Ahrens. It was an off-day for the usually reliable Ahrens and he was replaced with 20 minutes remaining.

Angelo Montarosso made himself known to Avala with an exceptional burst of speed to run around De Silva before lobbing Ahrens from an acute angle in the 22nd minute. It was his sixth goal this season and certainly the one that will keep his confidence high.

Billy Wilcox added another after 53 minutes following a free kick. It appeared that the distance was just a little too much for Wilcox to attempt a shot at goal but the Avala keeper reacted slowly and it was 0-2. Some 12 minutes later and yet another long range shot went past the keeper, this time from Walter Valeri. Ricky Budini made it 1-3 with only minutes left from a melee inside the Inter Monaro penalty area.

Polonia 2

Warringham Narabeen 1

Scorers: Thomas 3rd, Fogarty 81st, Rylands 85th.
Venue: Chapin Park.

"Chopin would have turned in his grave had been at this game, it was just not a tune that anyone would appreciate," sounded one of the disappointed officials, following Polonia's narrow win over Warringham.

Neither side showed enough to warm up a handful of spectators at Chopin Park and a mystery certainly surrounds this fine outfit from Canley Vale.

Warringham Narabeen, ever ready to experiment, yet again made changes to its side. Missing were Paul and Allan Dean, Sarge and Taylor. And while one could not complain about the standard of replacements in this Warringham side, particularly that of the skilful David Jack (on loan from Manly), it was apparent that cohesion in the Warringham side was just not there.

Ku-Ring-Gai 2 Yugal 1

Scorers: Jeffery 16th, 82nd, Jesse 92nd.
Venue: Parklands Oval.

Glen Jeffery broke the drought for his side at Parklands Oval with a two-goal effort which lifted Ku-Ring-Gai into seventh spot. Had it not have been for some brave keeping by Peter Berry of Yugal, Jeffery could have notched more goals.

After 15 minutes of some fine and constructive play by Yugal it was Ku-Ring-Gai and not the visitors who scored. Bertram and Jeffery raced downfield, exchanging one-two's before Jeffery received the final pass close to the post and at an acute angle on the right hand side. Somehow, he managed to hook the ball over Berry and into the net.

During the second period Yugal had more of the play and Andrew Prentice was kept busy, then with Terry Bertram having to leave the field, Yugal assumed the dominating role. But it was Kurungai again which scored against the run of play with Jeffery getting into the end of a free kick by Andy Tracey to make it 2-0.

Jesse made it 2-1, three minutes into the injury period, then with seconds to the final whistle Rafael Marco hit the Post for Yugal.

Bankstown-National 0 Auburn-Uruguay 0

Venue: Postes Park

Auburn remained undefeated in its last nine outings, but its fourth draw in succession didn't do much for its semi-final chances. The loss of this point to Bankstown allowed Sutherland to go past Auburn on goal difference and get into the top four.

Bankstown, reeling from its last two losses, came back with renewed vigour to deny Auburn. With very little going for either side in the opening period it was Slav Planinic who almost gave away a goal after half an hour of play.

With Aytec Genc very close to the Auburn keeper, Planinic made a suicide back pass which landed at the feet of Genc. Rosano's desperate dive at the feet of Genc was successful, but had the youngster reacted immediately it would have been a goal to Bankstown.

With only 10 minutes to go, it was Genc again, with Rosano as his only opponent. Somehow Genc failed to control the ball and that was another chance blown.

But that was the sum total of Bankstown's effort on the day.

For Auburn, things did not work out as the side had hoped during the first 45 minutes. Maybe the side was hoping that Bankstown would lie down and take the sort of beating any bottom placed side is expected to.

It was a different story during the second period with Auburn almost scoring in the opening minute. Benalas turned and shot from inside the area only to see Lohman make a brilliant save.

Benalas had two more chances during this period but his finishing was below par. However, his general play was better than most of his team mates and he is certain to keep his first grade spot.

Chris Townson, listless during the first period, was replaced by O'Shane and this spurred on Auburn. Ray Carney was running rings around Agostino on the flank, sending useful crosses over and Lohman had his hands full.

The siege of Lohman's goal was particularly strong in the last 10 minutes with a series of corner kicks going. Auburn's way. Much to the delight of the home side, none of those were effective, while some of the finishing by the Auburn players failed to reach the required standard.

The scores were tied at 2-2 at the end of normal time. Both teams had chances to seal the game during extra time but it was JUST which eventually found the back of the net... a sizzling 18 metre volley by substitute Tony Caban just two minutes from the end of the second period.

The game came alive after a scoreless first half, with the home side having to come from behind twice to keep alive its chances of making it through to the semi-finals.

Man of the Match:
Matko Belic
(JUST)

JUST went ahead in the 48th minute after Juve's goalkeeper Willie McNally mistimed a cross in the box. The ball was noddled down for winger Zdravko Lujic who gleefully took his chance.

Juve midfielder Steve Maxwell levelled seven minutes later when he was left unmarked at the far post where he hammered in a corner.

JUST had looked the better side for most of the game. It had more players prepared to run, fight, and generally do things with the ball whereas Juve lacked method, particularly across the midfield where Italian import Nello Scarpa was left to weave the creative work with his artistry. JUST regained the lead 20 minutes from full time with a sizzling free kick at the edge of the area by Jamie Paton.

But Juventus's gifted imports Scarpa and Tallierico combined for the equaliser. Scarpa floated a superb ball into the path of the fleet-footed Tallierico who headed the ball in from the far post...

Belic headed the ball into the net but the goal was disallowed when a linesman called the play offside — although it looked like a Juve defender had actually played Belic inside.

But it was Caban who had come on only at the start of extra time, who destroyed Juve's Cup hopes. Juve's keeper McNally had failed to effectively punch clear a high ball... and it fell for Caban, who beautifully struck the ball on the volley into an unguarded net.

Man of the Match:
JOHN CHARLTON
(Brisbane Lions)

Jozo Antolovic headed wide from just four metres out; David Brogan, with just Farrow to beat, shot wide of the far post, then young Robert Markovic headed into the net in the 90th minute.

Croatia's dominance continued during the 30 minutes of extra time.

It hit the front in the 95th minute after Rod Vasquez handled Rod Gojevic cross. Brogan converted from the penalty spot.

But Lions surprised by equalising in the 104th minute. Russell Stewart hammered a free kick past the Croatia defensive wall and onto the far post. The ball rebounded to McDonagh who slotted it past Blasby from six metres.

Then came Cumming's tremendous run. Josip Biskic played the ball wide to Cumming on the left.

Cumming took off for goal, evading three tackles and breaking clear. His shot struck Farrow but Brogan was on hand to tap the ball into the unguarded goal, and put Croatia into the semi-finals.

It was fitting that Cumming should play such a vital part in the decisive goal. He now relinquishes the coaching reins to Vrzina after his second stint as player-coach.

His first, late last year, resulted in Croatia winning the Dockery Cup and the State League Cup, two of Victorian soccer's premier competitions.

For Lions, John Charlton's display as a stopper was superb. His physical presence alone and timely tackles are enough to command respect but he also showed a great ability to read the game and some of his touches were superb.

McDonagh and Steve Fulton never gave up but they didn't get enough support.

CUP SEMS DEFERRED

As we went to press, the NSL hadn't fixed dates and venues for the semi-finals of the National Cup involving APIA Leichhardt, Melbourne Croatia, Newcastle Rosebud and Footscray J.U.S.T.

However, it seemed certain that the semi-finals would be held at the conclusion of the World Series Soccer tournament.

Newcastle Rosebud will play Footscray J.U.S.T. in a league match this Saturday at Adamstown Oval. This game has been brought forward from round 15, due to the unavailability of Adamstown Oval on the weekend of July 7 and 8.

Man of the Match:
DEREK TODD
(Newc. Rosebud)

N. Rosebud 3
S. C. Hakoah 0

Scorers: Milosevic 75th, 88th, Boogaard 79th.
Venue: Adamstown Oval.
Crowd: about 1,350.
Referee: Rob Davies 6.

Three fine second half goals gave Newcastle Rosebud a surprise 3-0 win over Sydney City Hakoah.

The game, despite wet conditions, was fast, open and entertaining with both teams prepared to attack the opponents' goal.

The Newcastle performance was in sharp contrast to the league game in which Sydney City Hakoah beat it 3-1 last month.

Hakoah was without seven of its top players, who are in the Australian squad.

But despite this, Hakoah was able to field very capable substitutes and club officials refused to make any excuses after the game.

Newcastle coach Willie Gallagher said after the game that Newcastle was starting to believe in itself and with a bit of luck could have scored another two goals.

There was some needle in the game with four players, three of them from Hakoah, receiving yellow cards.

Newcastle went into the game without regular goalie Clint Gosling, who chipped a

Newcastle avenges 1-8 loss bone in his knee at training last week.

But Steve Dorman, who was called up from the Adamstown First Division club for the game, played outstanding football and made several fine saves.

Newcastle scored its first goal in the 75th minute when striker Derek Todd did some fine lead-up work to centre the ball into the goal-mouth and Dino Milosevic beat Todd Clarke with his shot.

Four minutes later, David Jones crossed into the Hakoah goalmouth and defender Michael Boogaard headed the ball past Todd Clarke.

And then two minutes from full time, Milosevic broke away near halfway and beat Clarke to give Newcastle its third goal.

It was the climax to a magnificent period of attack by the Newcastle players who refused to close up the game when they got to the lead.

Shortly before, Todd had been unlucky to miss a goal when he weaved his way through and his shot shaved an upright.

Todd, Boogaard and Dorman were outstanding in the Newcastle side.

Defender Gerry Gomez, who conducted a minor running battle with Todd for most of the game, was one of Hakoah's top players and was well supported by Murray Barnes and Paul Kay.

APIA home

Penrith 0
APIA 2

Venue: Cook Park
Scorers: Caban 2
Cautions: Daley, Cotton (P), Cotton (AL)
Referee: Arthur Owens 5.

In a game filled with experienced and even veteran players, it was the South African-born 17-year-old Randall Easthorpe, who shone for Penrith with his enthusiasm and confident approach.

APIA had gone to the lead after 11 minutes and was able to take the lion's share of early possession.

Both Caban and Bradley had fired shots into the side netting during the opening exchanges and Vic Bozanic had tested Gibson with a powerful shot which the 'keeper did well to control before the visitors took the lead.

De Ceglie put over a high cross from the left which Bradley headed back into the goalmouth, finding Kerry Caban in a perfect position to also head the ball, this time finding the far corner of the net.

Ian Wotherspoon came close for Penrith after 42 minutes only to head the ball at the feet of Parks instead of beyond his reach. Nothing was going right for Penrith at this stage.

It was a different story after the interval with APIA looking sluggish for the first 20 minutes or so and Penrith showing more determination.

It was a first class move which brought the game to life.

Man of the Match:
RANDALL EASTHORPE
(Penrith)

Roy Cotton made space on the left, passed to Fitzharris and the cross was met on the volley by Easthorpe with the ball crashing fiercely against the angle of the upright and crossbar, with Parks stranded.

Two minutes later Parks was again exposed as Easthorpe grabbed a loose ball in the box and fired one first-time, only to see Vic Bozanic get his body in the way without knowing much about it.

APIA was still mounting a few attacks of its own as the second half wore on and Caban hit the side netting.

The second and decisive goal came out of the blue with Kerry Caban running onto a ball sent forward hopefully by the APIA defence and catching Penrith's central defenders off guard. Caban had little difficulty beating Gibson who took only a few token steps from his goal to narrow the angle and failed to prevent the passage of the ball into the empty net.

The solid and well-disciplined APIA team can take credit for this win as it never lost control even when Penrith looked like getting back into the game. APIA should prove a worthy opponent for any team it may face in the semi-finals.

Al momento di andare in stampa la Juventus di Torino ha giocato due partite in suolo australiano, contro il Manchester United a Sydney, contro l'Australia A a Melbourne: ancora due incontri con il verdeoro di Arok prima di concludere la tournée agli antipodi dovrebbero dare agli uomini di Trapattoni maggiori possibilità di domare l'esuberrante formazione del socceros che in questo torneo internazionale ha dato prove abbondanti di essere una squadra temibile, specialmente dal lato agonistico e atletico.

A Sydney, contro un Manchester United in formazione rimaneggiata ma intenzionato a prendersi la rivincita per la sconfitta subita nella semifinale della Coppa delle Coppe, la Juventus ha incantato gli spettatori al Sydney Cricket Ground e i telespettatori in altre città d'Australia con un gioco fatto di virtuosismi, di incredibile controllo della palla, di impeccabile intesa. Gli avversari, rafforzati da un superlativo Worthington (in prestito dal Brighton), spesso sono rimasti estereffati dalla magia bianconera, ma hanno saputo reggere il confronto grazie ad un gioco solido ed una tenuta molto migliore della Juve che era arrivata a Sydney solo due giorni prima e non si era perciò rimessa dal lungo viaggio. A Sydney si era visto in azione Gentile che ha sprofeso tutti non solo per la maestria del suo gioco, ma per la sua impeccabile correttezza nonostante la fama di implacabile giustiziere. L'attentissimo Rossi ha offerto qualche spunto pregevole ed ha poi abbandonato il campo, sostituito da Koetting al 65', perché sofferente di disidratazione. Boniek, a sprazzi, ha dimostrato tutta la sua grande classe, mentre i "nuovi" Tacconi e Bonini hanno brillato in modo particolare. Ma, essenzialmente, la partita di Sydney era una uscita amichevole fra due grandi squadre europee. La prova del juoco per la Juventus sarebbe arrivata a Melbourne contro la nazionale australiana smodata di dimostrare la sua validità in campo internazionale. Dal verdeoro, che sotto l'allenatore Arok stanno diventando una vera e propria formazione di forasennati astati di vittoria a tutti i costi, i bianconeri non potevano aspettarsi né vita facile né tanti complimenti. Circa 40.000 spettatori gremivano gli spalti del Melbourne Cricket Ground domenica scorsa per assistere alla partita. Arok aveva dichiarato con la sua spavalda sicurezza che i suoi ragazzi avrebbero affrontati i campioni italiani a viso a pecto ed avrebbero addirittura conteso la partita con le stesse armi della Juventus: possesso della palla e tecnica individuale. La nazionale australiana scendeva in campo in formazione ideale poiché, anche Davidson si era rimesso da un infortunio al menisco, e poteva addirittura permettersi il lusso di tenere in panchina gente come Farina e Mitchell; nella Juventus mancava Gen-

Fra un tripudio di bandiere tricolori e bianconere la partita iniziava velocissima con la Juventus in cattedra grazie ai suoi tocchi sapienti ed alla fluidità della sua impostazione. Si cominciava all'insegna del bel gioco e delle buone intenzioni di dar spettacolo, ma la dura difesa australiana impediva su Yankos, Ratcliffe e O'Connor guardava al sodo e bloccava i classici avversari con grande decisione. Dall'altra parte del campo Kosmina, Soper e Charlie Egan si infiltravano nella retrovia bianconera ad ogni occasione anche se le freddezza di Cabrin Scirea e Brio riusciva a controllarli agevolmente. A centrocampo Boniek e Bonini in modo particolare sviluppavano azioni su azioni, ma Watson e Murphy non sfuggivano tanto al confronto. La partita sembrava mantenere le promesse della vigilia e gli spalti si animavano quasi a preguistare il grande spettacolo che ne sarebbe venuto fuori sull'arco dei 90 minuti.

Ma la fuga ben presto cominciava a fare brutti scherzi a Marshall Soper che si veniva a trovare al centro di duri scontri con alcuni avversari bianconeri fino al punto di beccarsi un distracchio da K.O. da Tacconi; più tardi era Boniek che prevedeva a pugno Watson. Era ovvio che il gioco deciso e duro dei socceros non andava tanto a genio ai bianconeri che davano pan per focaccia. Il malcapitato arbitro Johnston non sapeva più che pesci prendere, e con un eccesso di zelo per non deludere il pubblico accorso a vedere i campionissimi, lasciava correre scorrettezze su scorrettezze quando avrebbe potuto espellere almeno due giocatori per parte.

La partita degenerava perciò in uno scontro di una violenza inaspettata e continuava a ritmo di tambur battente a tutto vantaggio dei padroni di casa che in situazioni del genere sanno dare il loro meglio.

Dalla Juventus non ci si poteva aspettare la stessa disperazione e lo stesso fanatismo di Cabrin Scirea e Brio ripetutamente in avanti dalla retrovia mettendo finalmente in mostra le sue grandi doti di libero.

La Juventus di questo periodo è stata quella che più ha rassomigliato ad una orchestra calcistica: Scirea e Bonini avanzavano e scambiavano con Boniek, Rossi, Koetting e Cabrin, Vignola si allargava in posizione di ala per raccogliere le palle larche e rimandare traversoni al centro o tentare la via delle rete. La difesa australiana si difendeva con affanno e con inaspettata bravura: Davidson torreggiava per classe e senso Alli 42' però i padroni di casa passavano in vantaggio su calcio d'angolo battuto da Watson: Ratcliffe colpiva di testa ed indirizzava a mezz'altezza resente il palo, Tacconi riusciva a raggiungere la sfera ma invece di tentare di deviarla finiva per spingerla in rete. La Juventus si trovava così in condizioni di dover forzare i tempi e iniziava la ripresa ben decisa a rimontare lo svantaggio. Per i primi dieci minuti la partita era di preta marca bianconera, ma pian piano gli australiani riuscivano ad imbrigliare gli avversari per cercare di difendere così la rete messa a segno.

Intanto Tardelli, in giornata non del tutto felice, veniva sostituito da Koetting. Verso la mezz'ora la Juventus usciva nuovamente dalla sua tana con Scirea che spingeva ripetutamente in avanti dalla retrovia mettendo finalmente in mostra le sue grandi doti di libero.

La Juventus di questo periodo è stata quella che più ha rassomigliato ad una orchestra calcistica: Scirea e Bonini avanzavano e scambiavano con Boniek, Rossi, Koetting e Cabrin, Vignola si allargava in posizione di ala per raccogliere le palle larche e rimandare traversoni al centro o tentare la via delle rete. La difesa australiana si difendeva con affanno e con inaspettata bravura: Davidson torreggiava per classe e senso di posizione, Ratcliffe si dimostrava un mastino alle costole di Rossi e Greedy si esibiva in difficili interventi.

Alla fine però, Koetting trovava la via della rete nell'unico modo possibile: il giovane centrocampista raccoglieva una respinta della difesa verdeoro appena fuori dell'area e con grande prontezza di spirito si esibiva in un unbricante dribbling che metteva fuori causa tre avversari e quindi spingeva la palla rasoterra a fili di palo.

La difesa australiana non ha avuto nemmeno il tempo di capire cosa stava succedendo ed il gioco era fatto.

Verso la fine della partita tutte due le squadre avevano occasione di passare in vantaggio, ma il risultato di partita non faceva una piega.

La Juventus dimostrava a sprazzi la sua grande classe e la validità del suo tipo di gioco. L'Australia convinceva tutti per il suo impegno allo spassimo, per alcune eccellenti individualità e per l'accorta impostazione tattica che l'allenatore Arok ha saputo darle.

E' innegabile che la prestantza fisica di alcuni suoi giocatori viene usata per intimidire l'avversario, ma è innegabile che nel calcio moderno che cerca il risultato a tutti i costi anche questo fa parte del gioco. ... e viene usato, in maniera meno plateale, da tutte le squadre del mondo.

Τό Σάββατο τό Κλίφτον Χιλ δίνει ένα από τή πιά δόσολα παγινιότινα τόν. Άγανίζεταί στο Σπρινγκφιλντ με τήν τοπική ομάδα.

ΑΥΤΕΡΑΙΑ - ΠΡΟΪΟΝΤΟΥΣ 1-1

Μέσα στο ΜΟΓ και παρούσα 38.000 περίπου φιλάθλων (κόπησαν 36, 128 εισιτήρια) ή "Θενική Αδελφότητα και ή περίηγη "Ιταλική Γιουβέντους μετά από ένα ενδιάμεσο ύνα άγνωα έξήλθαν ισόπαλες 1-1.

Γιά τήν Αδελφότητα τό γκολ πέτυχε δ Νο 5 Ράτκλιφ στο 42' και γιά τήν Γιουβέ δ Νο 15 Κήνιχ στο 78'.

Σίγουρα δ διατήρησε η Γιούβεντους είχε δέ σκληρή δουλειά και περισσότερο με τίς φάσεις που έγιναν στο 42' και 47' και πάλι κόντερε να τινάχεται τό μάτ στο τέρας.

Και στίς δύο φάσεις τήν άρχή τήν έκαναν οι παίκτες της Αδελφότητας.

Ευνοημένη στο 42' και ενδ δ Πανδίν ήδη είχε πέσει για τήν μπάλλα, δ Σόπερ έκανε προβόλη δ άποτέλεσμα να κυνηήσει έλαφρά τόν τερματοφύλακα στο πρόσωπο.

Στή συνέχεια όμως δ Πανδίν έκανε καί ποδ άποσώθηκε τόν έξέθεσε. Έδωσε γροθιά στο Σόπερ.

Αν δρεπερ έστειλε τόν Πανδίν στα άποδυτήρια τό μάτ δά είχε χαλάσει.

Τό κακό όμως συνεχίστηκε στο 47' όταν δ

Γουότσον έκανε άρχή για φασορία με τόν Μπένικς. Έπεσαν καί τή "φίλες" κλωτσιές και δ Γουότσον έδωσε κεφαλιά στον Μκρόνμια για νά δεχθεί από τόν δέυτερο χασοτόν και μαζή κίτηνη κάρτα από τόν περερ.

Γενικά στο άσχημα αυτό σημεία δέν νομίζουμε ότι φταίει μόνο ή μία πλευρά άλλα άμφοτεροί οι άντιπαλοί.

Πάντως τό σκληρό παιχνίδι και τό πάθος που έδειξαν οι παίκτες της Αδελφότητας άξίολογουμε ότι δά τό όνομα και στούς προκριματικούς άγώνες για τό Παγκόσμιο Κόπελλο.

Μάλιστα μέχρι τώρα έχουμε δει πικτική από όμάς τή Μελβόρνη να σκίζεται και να δίνει τόν δυντ τόν άντιπαλό με τήν ά διαφορά που δείχνει στο πρωτάθλημα.

Είναι κι αυτό ένα "μαθηματικό" για μερί των από τήν ομάδα τόν που τόν μαμαρώνουν και τό κάνουν τά κέρια τόν, ενδ βλέπουν ότι τούς κοροϊεύει δ άνθρωπος φανερά.

Άλλωστε έχει χύσει ποτέ για τόν συλλογό του τόν Ισράηλ;

Άλλά ελπίζω ότι ή ζήνομανία δά φάει τά κεφάλια πολλών. Ποιά κεφάλια; Περιμένετε και δά τή δέλετα του χρόνου τέτοιο καιρό ή και νωρίτερα.

ΤΟ ΜΑΔΕΡΝ ΑΕΝ ΕΠΑΙΞΕ ΚΑΙ ΕΧΑΣΕ 3-1

Αν και δέν έπαιξε τό Μάδερν Σίτυ καλό ποδόσφαιρο εντούτοις με λίγη προσοχή δά μπορούσε να είχε πάρει όχι τήν νίκη άλλα τουλάχιστο τήν ισόπαλία από τό Γ. Μκρόνμια τόν όποιο προηγήθηκε στο ά μέρος με 3-0.

Ο Τριανταφυλλίδης για τό Μάδερν στο 75 μείωσε σε 3-1 που ήταν και τό τελικό άποτέλεσμα.

Έπαιξαν οι Μανέν, Άζινομακρόν, Παπαδόπουλος, Τσάβις, Δημητρίου, Ρομπότος, (73' Λαμπρόπουλος) Τριανταφυλλίδης, Γεωργιάδης, Ίωαννίδης, Σμακίτς (45' Γκαρσάνης) Αλαγιολίδης.

Σεχώρισαν οι Παπαδόπουλος, Τριανταφυλλίδης και "Ιωαννίδης."

Η Β' ομάδα νίκησε 4-1.

JUGOSLOVENSKA SCENA

JUVENTUS NAS JE RAZO- CARAO

Ισχυεν νεκίλοκο professionalni, ali i nedovoljnih jedinica, Juventus nije mnogo pokazao, kao je srećno prošao protiv razigranog Australije, koja je glavna atrakcija u Medjunarodnoj fudbalskoj seriji.

Sudija je spasio Juventus od poraza, jer je morao da izabaci iz igre golmana Stefana Tacconia i Zbigniewa Bonieka zbog nepravilnog ponašanja pred 37.000 gledalaca. Oboljica su nedovoljno, kao prave razmazene balerine, svoju nemoc pokusali da prikriju besom i fizickim obracavanjem, koje se katzjavu crevenim kartonima. Sudija se sasvim pametno uzdrzao od najstroje kazne da bi spasio utakmicu.

Publika je bila izvanredna. Medjutim, atmosfera bi bila daleko svescijanja prikladnija na Olympic Park, koji bi bio prepun i vise odgovarao igracima oba tima, da ne spominjemo finansijsku stranu.

Iako smo videli kratak evropskog fudbala jos uvek smo gladni golova. Rezultat 0:0, cak i 1:1, znak je fudbalske dekadencije. Afrokoni momci su igrali otvoreno i muski, samo nedostatak i tuskisli sprecio je domace igrace da postignu par golova vise, dok su gosti koristili prekid igre i kaznene udarce da ugroze mrezu Australije.

Nadamo se da ce ostatak utakmica Medjunarodne serije ispuniti nasna ocekivanja! Razume se, rec imajuz Juventus i Iraklis, jer je reprezentacija Australije pruzila daleko vise nego sto se ocekivalo.

Zanimljivo je videti da li ce Iraklis provuci vecu posetu od Juventusa, jer je grcka zajednica brojnija od italijanske. Za nas je Iraklis utoliko interesantiji sto u svojim redovima ima dva vrlo dobra jugoslovenska igraca, bivseg Vardarog golmana Georgijevskog i Dusanu Mitosevica, koji je boljeg strelca Radnickog iz Nisa. Iraklis igra prvu utakmicu u Brisbanu veceras protiv "B" time Australije, drugi susret je na Melbourne Cricket Groundu protiv "A" tima Australije koja ne zna za proaz u ovjoj godini.

Paolo Rosi i druzina imaju jos dve sanse da opravdaju veliki ugled u Australiji, koji je ozbiljno poljuljan prosle nedelje na MCG.

"PLAVI" U POLUFINALU

Sasvim necujno, ali potpuno zasluzeno JUST je probio u polufinale Nacionalnog Kupa Australije, sto je najveći uspeh ovog najstarijeg jugoslovenskog kluba od pivanja Nacionalne lige 1976. godine.

Nije bilo lako "plavima" da ostvare ovaj podvig, jer su vec u tek utakmica odigrali bez 8 standardnih igraca, koji su povredjeni. Trener Ceda Cirkovic je uio snagu i veru u rezervne igrace, iako je sam sumnjao u uspeh, ali kao iskusan igrač znao je da mnogi faktori uticu na krajnji ishod i da ih treba iskoristiti do maksimuma. "Plavi" su pruzili sve od sebe i dospeli do polufinala, uvereni da ce ih sportska sreća pratiti do kraja ovog takmicenja.

U Adelaide JUST je zasluzeno pobedio Adelaide City sa 3:2 posle produzetka od 30 minuta. Po sansama pobeda "plavih" mogla je biti veca i ranije ostvarena. U regularnom vremenu sudija je bio na visini za datu, ali je u nastavku ostetio "plavke", kada je prvo priznao a onda (na intervenciju medijasnog) ponistio ispravni gol Vlatka Beljca. Pravda je zadovoljena minut pre kraja, kada je Tony Chan postignio pobedonosni zgodac.

Sastav JUST: Boland 7m McDowell 7, Hazabent 9, Kyriakoulas 7, Tansey 7, Curovic 9, Belic 7, Karic 7, Paton 6, Laccanovici 6 (Chan od 97. minuta), Lujic 9 (Simic od 116. minuta).

Strelci: Zdravko Lujic u 47. i Jan Paton u 70. i Tony Chan u 119. minutu za JUST.

Dok se svi ostali klubovi braju odmarati i posmatrati krad televizijskih aparata susret Juventusa i Australije na Sydney Cricket Groundu, igraci JUSTA prepoznaju se u Newcastleu protiv Rosebuda. Ova utakmica 15. kola, koja je trebala da se igra u nedelju 8. jula, pomerena je unapred za subotu 16. juna iz "tehnickih" razloga. Igrace se na vetromtom i domobanatom Adamstown Ovalu, a pravdu ce deliti lokalni sudija J. Reeves. Trener Cirkovic i igraci JUSTA veruju da ce prebroditi i ovu prepreku sa uspehom i obradovati brojne navijace u Newcastleu okupljene oko drustva Mladost.

PRVA DIVIZIJA

Nije igrao Pavle Jevonovic, jer se tog dana ozleo na ckerom g. Arezine, predsednika "Beograda" iz Adelaide. Razume se, svi igraci "Srbije" bili su svatovni zajedno sa mladencima proslavivši vaznu pobedu svoj kluba.

U predigri rezerva Eithama pobedila je drugi tim Ringwood/Srbije sa 5:0.

Zanimljivo da sudija nije kaznio slican prekras golmana Tibora Mistrica nad Miki Cvetkovskim. Posle utakmice Zvezdin golman Nikola Popovic hitno je prebacen u bolnicu, jer je najveći deo utakmice brzinu kontanzovan, cak se ne seca da je skrivio jedanaesterac.

Pred kraj utakmice izbila je kavga, ali su se ratoborni dubovi prco umirili, kada je sudija pokazao crveni karton temperamentnom Toni Benedeku, koji je platio i tudje grčevine.

1:2 TReci poraz Mladosti smanjio je izgledje ovog ambicioznog kluba da se probije u Metropolitan ligu.

USPEHI VOJVODINE I PELIS- TERA

Dugo ce pamtiti razigranog i ispoljivog Zarka Stanimirovica, koji je postigao het-trik na ovoj utakmici. Niko ga nije mogao zadržati u elegantnim prodorima, koje je izvodio kao prvi velemaistor u skijanju. Strelac cetvrtog gola je Stevica Kosovac, koji je prvi put nastupio za Bosnu.
